SUMMER CAMP

for teens ages 12-18
who stutter

A FREE camp made possible through a generous gift from the Scottish Rite Foundation of Colorado.

This intensive therapy program helps build communication skills in adolescents who stutter.

Within a supportive and fun environment, campers will interact with others who stutter and participate in activities that help them build confidence, better manage their stuttering, and communicate more effectively.

The program includes individual and group therapy sessions, as well as off-campus excursions. Parents and family members will have the opportunity to attend a dinner with campers and staff Friday night and participate in group activities on the last day of camp.

Campers will develop individualized communication goals that can be taken with them into the new school year. Prior experience with stuttering treatment is recommended but not required.

CAMPERS CAN EXPECT TO:

- Meet other people their age (12-18) who stutter
- Have fun talking and learning new ways to make talking easier
- Learn more about stuttering
- Have opportunities to share their thoughts and feelings about stuttering

PARENTS CAN EXPECT TO:

- Meet and share experiences with other parents
- Learn how you and your family can help your child
- Learn more about stuttering, treatment options, and support available for teens and their families
