

Using laptops in order to make the process quick and easy, our goal is to obtain brief written responses to four questions. Analysis of the responses will assist us in developing software that will help us to efficiently analyze and better understand people's perception about themselves and their ability to successfully participate in daily activities.