LOCAL NSA CHAPTERS

With more than three million Americans sharing the common experience of stuttering, the National Stuttering Association (NSA) plays a vital role in letting people who stutter know that they are not alone. As the world’s largest self-help group for people who stutter, the NSA provides support and information to the stuttering community through a variety of programs and services, instilling the sense of self-worth so often missing in the lives of those who battle this disorder.

With supporters worldwide and nearly 200 chapters throughout the United States, the NSA provides information about stuttering, increases public awareness of stuttering, serves as a support and advocacy group, and is a referral organization for speech therapy sources throughout the United States. Our support groups provide attendees with the opportunity to share fears, frustrations, and triumphs; practice therapeutic techniques to help control stuttering in a safe and supportive environment; engage in speaking experiences they might shy away from in their daily lives; and, perhaps most importantly, assist others in achieving these goals.

The NSA’s regular chapter meetings have been helping for decades because they work.
