

Title

A Qualitative Study of the Experiences of LGBTQ+ People Who Stutter

Aim and Rationale

This qualitative study is designed to better understand the experiences of people who stutter who are also members of the LGBTQ+ community. Research has shown that stuttering can adversely impact an individual's quality of life in a variety of ways. However, less is known about the experiences of individuals who stutter who exhibit other stigmatizing conditions. For this study, the primary investigator will conduct semi-structured interviews with LGBTQ+ people who stutter.

Primary Investigator

Derek E. Daniels, Ph.D., CCC-SLP

Contact Information

dedaniels@wayne.edu; 313-577-3339